

Loyola Players Entertain Tonight

The Masque and Rapier club will present three one-act plays in Loyola's Little Theatre tonight at 8:30. Students and their friends are invited to these productions, the second series of plays given by the club this year. There will be no admission charge.

Two of the plays will be war dramas, the third is a light satirical comedy. One of the plays, "They Shall Not Have Died in Vain", was written by Bob Moser early this year. Moser is now at Villanova College under the V-12 plan.

O'Neill Play Presented

Of the two "bought" plays, one was written by the well-known American playwright, Eugene O'Neill. The play is "In the Zone", one of six famous one-act plays by that author collected in a volume called "Moon of the Caribbees". Several of these plays were recently enacted in the motion pictures.

"In the Zone" is the story of a group of British Merchant Seamen enroute to the 1914 war zone on a munitions transport ship. Their natural fear of submarines is increased by the suspicion that one of their buddies is a German spy, who plots to destroy the ship with a bomb.

Starred in this production are J. Stewart Johnson, Henry Eckhardt, and Barton Benson.

Hits Home Front Critics

The second war play, "They Shall Not Have Died in Vain", is by Robert Moser.

His story hits at the home front critics who complain about wartime rationing and the conduct of the war. A group of midwest farmers are harangued by a soldier returned from the battle fronts on the hardships of battle. A novel ending results in the farmers resolving to do their best on the home front to help the war effort.

John Boone and James Garvey have lead parts in this production.

"99 and 44/100% Pure" is the third play of the evening. This comedy tells the story of a psychiatric patient who has hallucinations of having innumerable advertised illnesses. The patient is played by Terrence Burke.

Writers Planning Greyhound Dinner

Mr. Francis F. Beirne, feature columnist for the Baltimore Evening Sun, will be the guest of honor at THE GREYHOUND banquet on January 8 at the Hotel Emerson. According to tradition the Reverend Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., will announce the new editorial staff on that occasion.

Robert E. Chartrand, Editor of THE GREYHOUND, will be toastmaster and Fr. Gibbons will bestow awards upon those retiring seniors whose service has been continued and distinguished. The awards will consist of gold lapel pins representing a running greyhound with a gold chain attached to a block L.

The Light Of The World

"I am the Way, the Truth and the Light." So spoke Christ of Himself. Truth is the goal of the Way, and the Light illuminates the Way and the Truth. Man's purpose in life is to seek Truth. Among the pagans the sole source of Truth was the investigation and demonstration of human reason. The Jews had direct contact with God through revelation which promised a Redeemer. The prophets foretold His coming and typified His life and mission. In the fullness of time, Christ came, the Incarnation of Truth, Divine and Human.

When we possess Him through the light of Faith and the glow of Charity, we have the sense of completion and happiness in the pursuit of perfection. Faith in Him is the foundation and the love of Him are the pillars of true civilization. With these, the whole structure is firm, strong, beautiful and imperishable and human society possesses order, tranquillity and peace.

Looking back on the past that preceded this catastrophic war, we behold disorder, conflict and confusion among the people of all nations. The light of the World has been eclipsed in the minds of so many by the clouds of unbelief and hate, and thus blinded, they rush into destruction. Christmas should recall His presence among men as the Light of the World. May His shining glory enlighten the people of all nations and may the benign power of His love take possession of their hearts to bring about the fulfillment of justice in charity for the peace of the world.

That our students, alumni, parents and friends may share abundantly of His Light is the sincere and ardent prayer of the Faculty of Loyola.

Reverend Edward Bernard Bunn, S. J.,
President of Loyola College

Fr. MacFarlane Gives Students Retreat

Jesuit's Talk Concludes Series

Rev. Joseph Clark, S. J., of Woodstock College, concluded the annual fall lecture series held on successive Sundays in November. Fr. Murray, Editor of Theological Studies, was unable to lecture due to illness.

On November 14 the Reverend J. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., S. T. D., opened the series addressing a representative group in the college library on the subject "Equality in Personal Sovereignty." Fr. Guthrie is Dean of the Graduate School at Georgetown University. "The Recent Trends of Law in America," delivered by the Regent of the Georgetown University Law School, the Reverend Francis E. Lucey, S. J., Ph. D., LL. B., member of The Washington, D. C. Bar, completed the group.

The Lecture Committee responsible for the planning of this series, includes the following: The Very Reverend John F. Lardner, S. S., (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

Reverend Joseph F. MacFarlane, S. J., conducted the student retreat held at Evergreen on December 6, 7 and 8. The conferences were held in the college chapel. The retreat master was on hand for consultation and confession during all the recess periods as well as the other Fathers of the faculty who met with individual students for private conferences.

As in past years, the senior retreat at Manresa-on-the-Severn was conducted coincidental with the student retreat. The Reverend Edward J. Stokes, S. J., who recently left teaching at Loyola High School for work on the Mission Band, was the retreat master. All of the Catholic students took advantage of this final opportunity to make a retreat together with their classmates.

Sodalists Plan Christmas Party

The Sodality Union of Baltimore will present a Christmas party on Wednesday at St. Elizabeth's Colored Orphanage. At 7 P. M. Santa Claus will make his appearance and present gifts to the 75 boys and girls gathered in the assembly hall. Afterwards there will be ice cream, cake, and candy for the children. As an added entertainment, arrangements have been made with a well-known magician to put on a special display of sleight-of-hand, which promises to make the evening a thoroughly enjoyable one.

General plans for this party were outlined and approved of at a meeting of the Union on Oct. 22 at Loyola College. This was the first meeting of the new year. A committee was appointed to make the plans. Prompt action was taken and everything is now ready. All minor difficulties were ironed out during the second meeting at Notre Dame College on Nov. 23.

The Sodality Union of Baltimore consists of four members: Loyola College, the Newman Club of Johns Hopkins, Notre Dame College and Mt. St. Agnes Junior College.

Loyola-Notre Dame Stage Joint Math Clubs Meeting

Miss Betty Ann Gessler, President of the Notre Dame Mathematics Society, presided at a joint meeting of the Loyola College and Notre Dame Mathematics Societies held at Notre Dame. The meeting was the first of a series planned by the officers of the two organizations.

Mr. James Garvey of the sophomore class delivered a paper entitled "Great Men in Mathematics" and Mr. Charles Lerch presented a brief outline of the practical application of higher studies.

Reverend Arthur A. North, S. J.

A distinguished Colonel will present a citation to Loyola for the work of Father North, Captain in the Chaplain Corps. The Very Reverend Edward B. Bunn, S. J., will receive it on behalf of the college at the Christmas party on December 19. Opposite is the citation.

Yuletide Party Will Feature New Choir

The traditional Christmas party for the students of Loyola College and their parents will be held on Sunday, December 19 at 3:30 P. M., in the college library. A program of Christmas carols to be presented by the orchestra and choir, under the direction of the Rev. John G. Hacker, S. J., will provide the musical entertainment.

The Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., the rector of the college, will welcome the students and their parents. The evergreen and holly of the yule season is planned as the decoration of the library.

Thaddeus C. Siwinski, the president of the Masque and Rapier Dramatic Society, has planned to present a monologue based on the martyrdom for Christmas. Refreshments will be served, and the parents will have an opportunity to meet the members of the Loyola faculty.

Father Hacker Reveals Program

Father Hacker, who has been the leader in Loyola's musical activities for fifteen years, announces that several traditional German carols will be sung by members of his German classes. The more difficult and less generally known hymns will be sung by the choir, but the students and their guests are to sing the more popular carols.

The choir which will sing the majority of the carols, has been complemented within the past four weeks. The first meeting was held late in November, and with the assistance of Fr. Hacker, rehearsals were held three times a week.

Program Of Carols

The program of Christmas carols to be presented at the party is as follows:

1. PRELUDE: Largo from "Naxos" Instrumental Ensemble
2. CHRIST WAS BORN ON CHRISTMAS DAY Chorus
3. O HOLY NIGHT Solo and Quartet
4. HESS ABATONNA Unison Chorus
5. GESU BAMBINO Solo, Chorus and Instrumental Ensemble
6. INTERLUDE: Nazareth Instrumental Ensemble
7. THREE GERMAN CAROLS (sung by Students of German)
8. COMMUNITY SINGING (with Orchestra)
  - (a) Adeste Ideles!
  - (b) Silent Night! Holy Night!
  - (c) The First Noel
  - (d) Angels We have Heard on High.

Chemists Reorganize; Eble Made President

Under the leadership of Thomas Eble, the Chemistry Club reenters the realm of functioning organizations on the Loyola College campus, after an absence of almost a year. The other officers are William Wright, vice-president, and Joseph Krejci, secretary.

Dr. John M. Buchness, physician for the Du Pont Chemical Company, will speak on industrial medicine on December 12. Edward Raduskus, also of Du Pont, is scheduled to speak on January 18.

The first lecture was delivered before the Chemistry Club by Mr. John Pouchet of the Rustless Steel Co., an alumnus of the College.

Perkinson's Play Won Drama Award

In order to build up a repertoire of original one-act plays for the dramatic files, a one-act play contest was held last spring by the Masque and Rapier Society.

On that occasion the basement classroom "1-F" was used as the "Little Theatre" for the first time. Several one act plays were written around the same plot by members of the "Playshop" and the best was chosen for performance.

Of the three finally presented, William Perkinson's "The Yellow Scurf", was judged best written and best acted.

Fr. Grady, moderator of the society at that time, produced excellent sets out of makeshift scenery, since the theatre was in use for the first time.

If it is judged feasible, further contests will be held in the future.

Dean's List Announced

At the last quarterly assembly, the Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., president of Loyola, urged that students show more interest in the college extra-curricular activities.

After-class activities, such as THE GREYHOUND, Debating, and I. R. C., will, he said, mean nearly as much to mental broadening in college as studies.

He emphasized that one of the requirements for a college degree was to be represented, each year, in at least one after-class activity. This rule will be stringently enforced in the future.

The following were placed on the Dean's List of Distinguished Students for attaining an average of 85% in each subject for the Third Quarter, ending November 12:

Seniors: Chesley V. Daniel, Charles S. Lerch, Paul M. Steffy, W. Murray White, William W. Wright.
Sophomores (A): Dodd S. Carr, Francis J. Goldsmith, Richard H. Lerch, Daniel G. Smith. (B) Fred R. McCrumb.

Loyola Dramatic Society Marks Its Seventy-Eighth Anniversary

Dramatics To Take Spotlight

Father Sullivan Guides Thespians

Any progress that the Dramatic Society may make in the future will be chiefly due to the tireless efforts of its moderator, Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J.

Fr. Sullivan has been faculty advisor of the Masque and Rapier Club since he came to Loyola in 1942. He is moderator of the Bellarmine Debating Society.

As professor, Fr. Sullivan is a teacher of sophomore Psychology and English. In his first year at Loyola he taught sophomore Latin, English, and Speech.

After class he devotes his spare time to securing and producing plays and training his debaters. Through his efforts, the club has built up a repertoire of a half dozen original one-act plays, one of which will be produced tonight.

Fr. Sullivan began his studies in July, 1927, at St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was ordained at Woodstock, Md. in June, 1940.

It was through the efforts of Fr. Sullivan that the basement classroom "1-F" was made into Loyola's "Little Theatre" complete with stage, lighting, acoustics, and seating capacity of 100.

The difficulties which war imposes upon college extra-curricular activities have not by any means passed by the Masque and Rapier Society.

The Moderator and officers experience great difficulties in casting plays and arranging rehearsals. Because of conflicting schedules, evening rehearsals have been held for the plays to be presented tonight.

While interest in the Society has not been lacking, many students are unable to attend meetings and accept parts due to heavy academic schedules.

But despite these difficulties, every effort is being made to keep the Society going. Fr. Sullivan hopes to produce a set of two or three plays every six weeks, if at all possible.

Deeply haunting the minds of all interested in dramatics at Loyola is the realization that in some post-war day the dramatic society will have a full-sized auditorium on the campus in which to stage its plays.

The auditorium is a definite part of the plans for future buildings at Evergreen. A student body of peacetime size and a concurrent academic schedule will see the full development of Loyola's dramatic society. Until that time, every effort will be made to keep alive dramatics at Loyola.

By Thaddeus Siwinski

The Masque and Rapier Club, Loyola's Dramatic Society, was 78 years old last April. In over three-quarters of a century, it has consistently presented annual one-act plays, Shakesperian drama, or full-scale productions of well known modern plays.

"Cenodoxus," "Your Town," and "Fr. Malachy's Miracle" are a few examples of well-known dramatic successes of recent years.

One-Act Plays In Wartime

While productions of such a scope are nearly impracticable in wartime, a steady series of original and "bought" one-act plays will be produced in coming months.

The Loyola Dramatic Organization was formed in 1865. At that time Loyola was a small college and student body and facilities were limited. But witness to the success of the early efforts of the society is to be found in a Sunpapers' quotation of that time:

"... At first, we were afraid the young gentlemen had been too ambitious in attempting so difficult a play as 'Julius Caesar', but this fear was dispelled before the end of the first act..."

It was at this time, 1867, that Loyola made Edwin Booth, greatest actor in the world in his day and considered to be the best Shakesperian actor America has ever produced, honorary member of its dramatic society.

"Cenodoxus" Great Success

But the dramatic society achieved even greater successes in later years. In "Cenodoxus" Loyola had a national "first." This was the first time this play was performed in America and in English. This production was presented in 1940.

"Your Town" Original

"Your Town" in 1941 marked another advance. The entire play and score for the musical comedy was written by the students. The production was modelled on the cartoons of the Sunpaper's artist, Yardley.

For the future, the Masque and Rapier society promises new and better plays. During wartime they can neither be numerous or large productions. But the plan of presenting two or three one-act plays every six weeks seems a plausible solution to present difficulties.

This Is A Job For Superman!

Greyhound Renews Alumni Canvass Listing Early Graduating Classes

By John H. Plunkett

During the "gay nineties", Loyola College was experiencing the prosperity of the Victorian world. For the first time in its history, the college conferred Bachelor of Philosophy and Bachelor of Science degrees, in addition to a few Doctorates of Philosophy. Up to this time, only A. B. and M. A. degrees were conferred.

In the issue of November 19, we erroneously listed Mr. Austin D. Nooney in the class of 1892. Mr. Nooney called to our attention the fact that he received his A. B. in 1902. We were also glad to learn his present occupation, that of an editorial writer on the BALTIMORE NEWS-POST.

We would sincerely appreciate it if every alumnus, who has something to add to our list, would follow the example of Mr. Nooney and write us a brief note calling our attention to the fact. This list is the beginning of a permanent record of Loyola alumni and it is up to the alumni themselves to help us perfect it.

Scribes Slate Second Social

The second GREYHOUND Press Club social will be held in the recreation room of the Gym next Friday. Besides dancing to some of America's tip-top bands and refreshments, a special Christmas surprise is promised by the Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., the moderator of the club.

The first social was held last month and was well attended by members of the staff. It is hoped that a few of the alumni members of the press club will be able to attend.

Robert E. Chartrand, president of the club, outlined its purpose at the first meeting. "The object of the club is to offer an opportunity for the further association, particularly socially, of Loyola men who have served on THE GREYHOUND," he said.

Any person whose name has appeared at least once on THE GREYHOUND masthead is eligible for membership in the club. All members must be approved by the board of trustees of the college.

A dinner dance sponsored by the press club is being planned for the early part of January.

The Constitution of the Press Club was recently presented to the Student Council for approval. The Constitution was returned to Robert Chartrand, GREYHOUND Editor and author of the Constitution, with approval.

Teachers Hear Hoya Scientist

The fall meeting of the Catholic Round Table of Science was held in the Loyola College Science building on December 4. Dr. Michael X. Sullivan, head of the Chemico-Medico Research Laboratory of Georgetown University spoke on Chemical research.

The Catholic Round Table of Science is an organization for Catholic professors of science in the United States. The Maryland chapter of the organization holds two meetings a year. The spring meetings are held in the District of Columbia and the fall meetings in Baltimore.

At each meeting, the science teachers are addressed by a guest speaker who has distinguished himself in the field of science.

Buchness Gives Student Council Activity Outline

Three major programs undertaken by the Student Council have been revealed by John Buchness, president of the Council.

"Our most important undertaking at present", Buchness stated, "is to prepare for the Christmas party, which we will help arrange. Robert Chartrand, Thaddens Siwinski, Daniel Silverstein, and I, compose a committee to handle arrangements."

Student Council Elections

"In accordance with the Student Council constitution," Buchness continued, "we are preparing for the next Student Council elections. It has been decided that Tuesday, December 21, will be the day of voting and that only students now in Sophomore A will be eligible for office."

Cheer Rallies Arranged

"Another thing which we are very interested in backing," said Buchness, "is the organization of cheer rallies for the basketball season, especially for the benefit of the freshmen. Gilbert Dunn, president of the athletic association, is now working on the details."

To Draw Up Rules

"A special project which I hope to complete before leaving office," the president concluded, "is to prepare a definite set of rules regarding the awarding of athletic letters. Until now we have had no written regulations dealing with the requirements for athletic awards. Father Jacobs, moderator of athletics, and Emil Reitz, athletic director, along with Gilbert Dunn and myself are preparing a set of rules which, when accepted, will be incorporated in the school constitution."

Block L Head Presents New Club Officers

Sgt. Gil Dunn, Athletic Association President, recently announced the results of the Block 'L' elections. Clayton McKenny, the spark plug of the track and cross-country teams and the black horse of Bushmaster fame was awarded the post of Vice-President. Bob Martin, whose ceaseless effort and outstanding management have held the track team together, takes over as Secretary. Don Freiert, manager of the Basketball squad since his freshman year, is the new treasurer.

The recent Block 'L' membership drive, reports Dunn, has been quite successful and a number of new members have been added. However there are still a few who are eligible to become members and have not cooperated.

Gil is devoting much of his time and the resources of the Block 'L' club toward school morale. The various meetings and pep-rallies were held to instill in the student body the need of school spirit and to win their support for the basketball team. Both Gil and Lefty feel that the greater part of the student body are coming across with all they have and are really out to help the team to win.

Child of Peace

Amid hate and bloodshed, Christians over the entire world will celebrate another wartime Christmas. Although there will be heartbreak mingled with the joy of the Christ, although the horrors of war seem to be unspent, there is a silent comforting thought in the picture of Him lying alone save for the love of His mother and foster father.

In war, the base, the animal, the savage instincts in man are forced to the fore by the pressure of preserving life and limb. In war, the love of neighbor is buried by the necessary love of self. In war, the smallness of man with his petty difficulties and grand hatreds sweeps aside the results of centuries of education. These facts make it difficult to keep the picture of the Christ at Bethlehem living as it should be.

The war may be over by next Christmas, pray God it will, but regardless of the trials that may lie ahead the figure of the Christ at Bethlehem remains as a symbol. Despite the abject poverty and miserable surroundings, despite the hard-heartedness of the townspeople, the figure of a Babe in a manger is dignified and hope-inspiring to the soul.

CONDOLENCES

Loyola College extends its prayerful remembrances to the families and friends of Bernard J. Shea, '28, and Mark W. Jenkins, ex-'44, who recently died in service.

Complete biographies of these Loyola heroes are being prepared.

The Reader's Right

To the Editor of THE GREYHOUND
Sir:

The music rendered on October 10, both at the baccalaureate Mass and the commencement exercises deserves more than a passing notice not only because of its excellent quality, but also because of the unusual amount of labor which it involved and the great difficulties that were encountered securing competent performers together with the necessary time for rehearsals.

Those who took an active part in the choir or in the orchestra will best know that the success was due mainly to the skilful and efficient management of our music director, Fr. Hacker. At the Mass the stirring procession hymn to Saint Ignatius as well as three of the four parts of the Proper were his compositions, while the other parts of the Mass and above all the brilliant supplementary Offertory, Anima Christi, were arranged by him for the particular group of singers at his disposal. The able support given by the organist, Miss Genevieve Butler, also merits special commendation.

At the commencement exercises the colorful orchestration of the Alma Mater song was also the work of Father Hacker. The careful choice of competent players made it possible to achieve a very creditable performance of three difficult numbers with only one rehearsal. It is due to the pianist, Mr. Daniel Silverstein, that such a feat was at all possible.

What a pity that circumstances make it so hard to hold the necessary rehearsals in order to build up a repertoire of vocal and instrumental music at Loyola College. The whole musical program of October 10 shows what could be done under such competent direction as we have at hand. Can nothing be done to stir up more enthusiastic support?

Sincerely,

Thaddeus C. Siwinski.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

Christmas Greetings from President Conlon.

"May the troubled times through which we are passing soon be over, and even in the times of war may each one of us in gratitude for what we have received and in prayer for what we need and desire say in fervent humility: "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of good will."

Greetings from Alumnus at the Front.

Months ago Alumni Doings printed a letter from the then President of the Block "L" Club, Francis Mueller. Today, "Franny" as an Ensign serving in the Mediterranean theatre writes to his fellow Alumni through the editor of this column. "We landed at a port in Northwest Africa and spent 4 days of sight-seeing in a typical American tourist style while awaiting further transportation to our ships. We are now flying to another port on the Mediterranean. We just took off from Gibraltar and I have never seen such a monstrous thing as that rock!

"They spoke French in this town we left. Tell Father Donceel I sure wish I had studied more in his French class. I must have set the language back a generation the way I murdered it arguing with the shop keepers. This is certainly the greatest experience of my life and I look forward to each day. Give my regards to all the boys."

"As ever,

Franny Mueller."

Greetings to you, Franny, from all of your friends in the Alumni Association and particularly from your Block "L" buddies. Pass on the good word to the Loyola boys with whom you come in contact!

Another Successful Alumni Retreat.

Another chapter has been added to the record of Loyola at Manresa. The week-end of December 3-5 saw 24 members of the Association gathered at Manresa-on-Severn for the annual Retreat. Bob Bouchelle and his committee proved that it can be done, war or no war. Many old faces were missing, having become stars in Manresa's service flag. As they read this at the front it may help them to know that many prayers for their safe return were whispered by their classmates and friends during the retreat.

President Conlon Makes Appointments.

At the first Executive Committee Meeting of the new Administration, Wednesday, November 24, President Conlon announced the appointment of officers for the present year. Thomas N. Perciot was reappointed Treasurer,—Edward A. Doehler Corresponding and Financial Secretary,—and Robert B. Bouchelle Recording Secretary. Appointments to the several committees will be announced at a later date.

Club News

MATH CLUB

At a recent meeting of the Mathematics Club, Charles Lerch was elected President of the club, William Wright, Vice-President; Dodd Carr, Secretary; and James O'Neill, Treasurer. Mr. Joseph May, the moderator, announced that a series of lectures on navigation would be given during the next term.

SODALITY UNION

A Christmas party for the underprivileged children of the city will be given by the Union of College Sodalites of Baltimore on December 15. This was decided at the first regular meeting of the Union for the scholastic year at Loyola on October 27.

SWINGOLOGY

By Richard S. Clark '44

Edward Kennedy Ellington, better known as the Duke, was born on April 29, 1899, in Washington, D. C. His nickname originated from schoolmates who admired his sharp clothes. Duke started studying piano at the tender age of six and at sixteen he played his first job with Louis Thomas. Ellington failed in his first attempt to play one of the five pianos in Russell Wordling's sixty piece orchestra, but later he landed the job, then promptly lost it for improvising a hot lick.

After jobbing around Washington for a short time and working in a place called The Poodle Dog, Duke formed his own band. Duke went to New York in 1923 but the job he got playing split-week theatre engagements was not very promising. However, life in Harlem was new and exciting. While in the big city Duke met Meade Lux Lewis and James Johnson and went to the various joints and jam sessions with them.

Urbanity and sophistication characterize much of the Duke's music. The orchestra of Ellington is one in which the rhythmic impact is forceful but is subordinated to the distinctive Ellington ensemble pattern.

The Duke once said, "I think in terms of horns. When a piece of music comes into my mind, I hear it as, say, Cootie Williams, Johnny Hodges, or Rex Stewart might play it." This, plus the fact that most of the Duke's men have been playing together for years, sums up the success of the Ellington band.

We will now take three slides from the 'Jump' album and delve into the band's arrangement of them. One O'Clock Jump, the most famous 'jump' tune of the Basie orchestra, is started off by the leader with only the rhythm section accompanying his piano. Solos by Lester Young and Herschel Evans on tenors, George Hunt on trombone, and Buck Clayton on trumpet highlight the disc.

Every Tub, (Basie considers this his finest effort for Decca), is opened by Young's tenor, followed by one of the greatest piano interludes by the leader, and then Clayton takes off on the trumpet. The band begins to rock and ride, three trumpets and three trombones moving in perfect unity while the saxes riff together in four part harmony above a terrific rhythm foundation served up hot by Messrs. Jones, Page, Green and Basie.

Five at Five is the final side to the collection and is a standout for two reasons. First, the weaving in and out of Jack Washington's haritone saxophone below the trumpets, and secondly, for the superb solo of Lester Young divided with Harry Edison's muted horn. This record date was Herschel Evans' last. Twelve days later Evans died of a heart ailment, and because he did not feel well at this recording session he didn't take any solos.

After hearing the twelve sides you'll understand why the piano-pounding Count is called the "Jump King of Swing."

Under Cover by John Roy Carlson. Under the guise of "Friends of democracy", many fascists groups have operated in America. These organizations are the outlets for foreign propaganda and have done great damage to our national war effort. Mr. Carlson spent four years as an investigator of these activities, usually as an active member. In his investigations, the author was at one time a member of the National-Socialist Party of America. The primary purpose of this propaganda was to weaken the unity of Americans in their "national defense".

The book well deserves credit for its education of the American people to the systems of the fascists who would like to govern our country, in their own way.

The End of the Beginning by Winston S. Churchill. This is a collection of the "war speeches" of Mr. Churchill, in which will be found some of the greatest speeches of all time. During the momentous year of 1942, the Prime Minister of Great Britain was called upon to deliver numerous "report" speeches and also many "morale" speeches. With the gift of a natural orator and the skill of a sculptor of granite-like phrases by which he holds the masses under his dominion, Mr. Churchill once again successfully weathered the storm and brought his ship of state through the dangerous waters. As he said in London in November, 1942: "This is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But, perhaps, it is the end of the beginning."

God Is My Co-pilot by Col. Robert L. Scott. The Flying Tigers of America who helped China in her early days of the present war, are now using their flying knowledge in the Army Air Corps. One of the prominent members of this force is Colonel Scott, who recently published one of the most interesting books on flying that has ever been written. In this account of his career as an aviator, the author "tells-all" concerning the many experiences as both a pilot in war and peace. The book is full of typical anecdotes of a pilot's life. The times when, as a student, he put his ship into a dive instead of a glide, and when he left the instructor on the field, a mile away from the hangars. One of the most encouraging points of the book is the fact that a man can retain his sense of humor after experiencing such privations and miseries that modern warfare impose.

Sophie Halenczik, American by Rose Feld. War uncovers many patriotic citizens who are foreign born. Sophie Halenczik is one of those people. Her daughters' husbands worked in war plants in Bridgeport. Her only son was drafted and sent to Australia. Mrs. Halenczik sold war bonds at the town hall, cultivated a large victory garden and was leader in all civic activities. The undiluted yet naive patriotism displayed by Sophie Halenczik—American, should be a beacon to other Americans.

Hounds Take Conference Opener

Running With The Hounds

By Harry Slaughter

The Greyhound Harriers this year had a rough and tumble season. With only two veterans, Clayton McKenny and John Paszek the team was composed mostly of inexperienced freshmen. To top this off, competing teams used many navy trainees to strengthen their ranks. Despite these two major handicaps the boys stuck to the job and managed to outrun the Catholic U. hill-and-dalers for the single victory of the season. This year, had not the armed forces intervened, Loyola would have had the best cross-country team in the history of the school, with Jimmy Ball, Larry Schmitt, Tommy McCall and Jerrie Courtney. Under the coaching of Mr. Frank Taylor S. J. the harriers have worked hard and piled up valuable experience for next season.

Bring Your Date to Evergreen

With cross-country put to rest for another year we turn to basketball which is the predominant sport here at Evergreen. Lefty has a hard nut to crack this year—and if I know Lefty he's the man who can do it. Gene O'Connor, the lone veteran of last year's varsity and Ed McGarry, who saw a little first-string action last season, form the nucleus of the quintet. Dutch Mohler who saw most of the season from the bench last year because of an injury early in the season, is back in action again and is improving steadily. Bill Davis, Jim Lacy and Bill Schanberger, Loyola High veterans and members of last year's Maryland Scholastic Championship team have justly earned starting berths. Gisriel, heaviest man on the squad will most likely start in the pivot position. Lacy has a very good set shot and Schanberger is a steady all around player—perhaps another Franny McDonough. Tom Gisriel and Neil Cole also hail from Loyola High. Gisriel took the rebounds in high school and is showing improvement in that capacity. Cole with no prep school experience is learning fast under Lefty's tutelage and may see a lot of action this season. Jerry Cohen, City College star, is very fast and has an excellent lay-up shot. Sal Cammarata, another City man, handles the ball nicely in the weave but needs a little more experience. Some of these plebes were good in scholastic competition—some were pretty hot. If they make the jump from prep school ball to college ball, there is no reason why we can't have a fairly good season.

Tomorrow Night at Nine-fifteen—

There have been a few changes in the schedule for the season. Western Maryland has dropped basketball entirely and Maryland has canceled their game with the Greyhounds. The game with Villanova last night was another late entry. The rest of the season remains unchanged. American U., with only five civilian courtmen, are going to use Navy players rather than drop the sport. However, they still should not be too difficult for the Greyhounds. Mt. St. Mary's will be a strong contender because of V-12 reinforcements and Catholic U., with three key men from last year's squad, Rice, Scanlon and Marcek should be fair competition. Bainbridge is reported to have a very strong team while Marshall and La Salle are about the same as last year.

Holler Loud — Support the Team

Gallaudet played real ball in the tournament last year but they were not at all spectacular during the season. As a matter of fact they just nosed Hopkins out of eighth place. The Hounds have had three games' experience with three good teams. They have a good chance to take Gallaudet over tomorrow night if they have your support on the side lines. The turnout for the last three games has been pretty fair thus far. Let's keep up the good work and give it all we have tomorrow night—and bring the girls too—they can yell just as loud as you can.

Bushmasters Lose Pennant; Draft-Dodgers New Champs

In the championship intramural touch football game, played on Nov. 30, the Draft Dodgers defeated the Bushmasters, who won the championship last year, by 19-13.

Dave Buchness scored for the Draft Dodgers in the first quarter on a pass thrown by Gene O'Connor. Gene's pass to McGarry was good for the extra point. Then the Bushmasters came back quickly when Sowa tallied. A kicking duel followed in the second period with Bolgiano gaining the advantage.

Early in the third period McGarry crossed the goal line to put the Draft Dodgers in the lead 13 to 6. The Senior "Six" retaliated as Bolgiano scored and McKenny snatched an extra-point pass to tie up the battle, 13 to 13. In the closing minutes of the last quarter the Draft Dodgers went ahead as Dave Buchness scored his second touchdown. With seconds to go the Bushmasters started a final drive which Gene O'Connor stopped when he intercepted a pass.

The first semi-final contest was a free scoring duel as the Draft Dodgers outpointed the Champs 50 to 49. Both sides scored eight touchdowns each but the Draft Dodgers capitalized on two extra points.

The Champs took an early 12 to 0 lead but the Draft Dodgers caught up with them and went ahead. From then on the battle saw-sawed back and forth. Lacy, Goldsmith, Davis, and O'Neill tallied for the Champs. The Draft Dodgers were led by O'Connor, McGarry, Mohler, and Rathell.

The Bushmasters out-powered the Screw Balls in the second semi-final game, 19 to 0. Clark tallied twice for the Seniors on the same sneaker pass play. John Buchness tossed the third touchdown heave to McKenny. Although the Screw Balls, led by Murphy and Polek, fought a hard and bitter battle, they could not dent the Bushmasters defense on scoring opportunities.

As "Lefty" Reitz had said, the above four teams were picked because of their record for the season and because they had the best percentage in their class period. Each member of the new champions will receive a medal.

The Greyhounds took their first Mason-Dixon Conference game with a 51-37 lead on the Bridgewater Eagles. Jim Lacy set the pace, looping in 11 field goals in twenty attempts. Tom Gisriel took second honors, making good 5 shots out of nine.

In the initial trial of the season the Coast Guard Cutters topped the Hounds by a score of 46-32. The Green team however showed abilities which were not expected of them. As a preliminary to the Coast Guard game, Towson Catholic rang up 32 points to the B squad's 28.

The encounter with Bridgewater brought out marked improvement over the Hounds' previous performance. The entire squad played real basketball and proved worthy of wearing the Green and Gray. Ed McGarry was on the ball but obviously did not have his basket eye.

At the five minute point the Greyhounds had chalked up 9 points to their opponents three, and continued to widen the gap throughout the first period. Early in the second half the Eagles cut the margin down to nine points but could get no closer for the Lacy-Gisriel combination dropped four counters for the Hounds in two minutes.

In the preliminary game the Senior All-stars outclassed the B squad in a 36-26 encounter.

CROSS-COUNTRY CLOSES FIRST WARTIME SEASON

Meeting with stiff competition throughout the season, the inexperienced Greyhound cross-country team ended its season with only one victory, that over the weak Catholic U. team.

The powerful Stonewall team, led by Frank Wright, 1942 South Atlantic Champion, twice took the measure of the Hounds in proving to be the strongest team in this section. The A. S. T. U. of Johns Hopkins also defeated Loyola in a triangle meet with the Stonewall D. C. The Green team hounded back with a 17-19 victory over the Catholic U. Cardinals. Paszek, McKenny and Thaler finished on the heels of Tony DeSpirito of C. U. to clinch the meet. Three days later Loyola once more defeated C. U. but fell before Gallaudet for the second time during the season.

The third annual Mason-Dixon championship race saw the V12 unit of Mt. St. Mary's win their first race of the year. Hopkins, Gallaudet and Catholic finished in that order with the Greyhounds trailing.

From The War Zone - -

Dear Hounds,

I have no idea who will be reading this letter, as Bob Chartrand and company have probably long since forsaken the verdant fields of Evergreen. Whoever you are, however, whether you be one of the faithful Freshman lackies who served not wisely but too well in the regime of my namesake and very good friend, G. Heavy, or a comparative newcomer to the scene, don't give the old rag up. I can imagine that it's pretty tough to keep the paper going when the lads are marching off every day; it was getting that way while we were still there. I can imagine that you feel pretty futile about the whole thing in a world that has practically forgotten about college life and sports. But one thing you can be sure of. The Loyola boys here, there and everywhere in this big, sprawling war picture haven't forgotten about life at their college. Not long ago I had the unexpected pleasure of meeting another Loyola grad down here, a man whom I had never met before. His name is Kammer, Doctor Kammer around Baltimore, Lt. (j.g.) Kammer, MC-V(S), USNR to the Navy, and Bill Kammer, '31, in the Alumni Directory. We no sooner met than we started talking about Loyola, Evergreen and, yes, THE GREYHOUND. It seems that he has not been receiving the paper either and would like to just as much as I. In other words, he wants to know what is going on at Loyola, how she is weathering the storm stirred up by the blast of the Draft, and how his fellow Alumni are faring in the various theatres of war. He wants to know those things just as I do, just as every Loyola alumnus does, just as you will when you're out here somewhere.

So keep right on the ball, make the paper as newsy as possible, and try to squeeze in all the Alumni dope that you can muster. If you can do that, and keep your mailing list as up to date as possible, you'll be helping the morale of one small group of service men more than the USO can ever hope to.

So hang on, fellows, through blood, sweat, tears and the paper shortage. Your job is more important than you realize. 'Nuff said.

The best of everything to all hands at Evergreen from

A Reminiscent Ex-Sports Ed. named
Jim McManus.

P.S. Enclosed find a small contribution to THE GREYHOUND Scholarship fund which I should have sent along before this. Hope it's not too late.

Editor's Note:—Copies of THE GREYHOUND are mailed to the homes of all alumni. May we kindly urge those at home to send it on to the fighting fronts.

STARS-IN-STRIPES

Ensign Francis J. Mueller, U. S. N. R., a graduate of Loyola in January 1943, is now seeing action with the navy in the Mediterranean Sea. After completing studies he was sent to Notre Dame University to undergo preparations for a commission. Successively he was made Ensign and transferred to Norfolk, Va. Here Mueller became experienced in L. C. I. boats. Shortly after this he was shipped across into European waters.

Sports Career

"Franny" graduated from City College. Seen regularly on Sunday Ball Clubs he was twice on Soudiot baseball teams which won the city championship; one with Blessed Sacrament and the other Northside.

At Loyola he had many accomplishments. His main sport was baseball, playing varsity three years, mostly in the outfield. Carrying a heavy bat he contributed much to the champion teams.

Last spring, before being called for service, he signed with the Birds and later was transferred to York, Pa., where he played interstate professional ball. This he had to give up when called to Notre Dame.

Besides baseball, Mueller was a member of the courtmen. The first three years he learned much by playing on the B-squad. In fourth year he played varsity. This team, showing

Ensign Francis J. Mueller,

ing great possibilities, was broken up by graduation.

First President Of A. A.

In his senior year Franuy was elected by the student body to take over the position of president of the Athletic Association. His job was carried out very successfully. Along with this nomination he also became the first president of the Block L Club. With help from the student body he started the club rolling.

Capable Student

However, he didn't win all of his recognition in athletics. Mueller was a consistent honor student. In fourth year he was elected president of the Mathematics Club. His time, too, was taken up in other activities.

Dunn Bolsters Team Support

The Block L Club led by its energetic leader Gil Dunn will support the drive for basketball books. The majority of the basketball team this year will be composed of players who have had only high school experience behind them. To improve this situation and build up the morale of the team, the Block L Club has arranged to have pep rallies during the lunch hour of many of the students.

The first rally of this kind was held on Monday, November 22. The great number of students which attended this meeting was amazing. It has shown that there is quite a bit of school spirit in the fellows, and as Gil Dunn said, "All we have to do is get it out of them." With the continuance of these pep rallies and the persistence of the Block L Club our basketball season will be fairly successful.

Gil Answers Walker

Dear Cory:

Thanks very much for your most enthusiastic letter; nothing could have served as a better stimulant, not only for myself, but for All Loyola College. After reading your letter over and over again, I too felt somewhat ashamed. I really haven't done anything to be ashamed of Cory, but it is because of that which I have NOT done, that makes me feel this way.

Today I saw the first light of our convictions come true. 130 boys out of a possible 160, turned out for a PEP Rally over in the gym. At first it looked like the same old story. A few fellows screaming and working themselves weak, while the majority were merely sitting this one out. But we stayed with them this time, Cory, and believe me before it was all over, this 130 had the Old Man (Lefty) smiling all over himself. This is only our beginning, Cory, and I know we are no match for Notre Dame, yet, but we are on the move and I'm putting my stakes on the Greyhounds to finish in the money. All of us realize that we are only a little gang, but we are all determined to be the best little gang that goes. You and I both wanted the enthusiasm and spirit at Loyola to be second to none, and now I am sure we have taken our first solid step forward.

This year our basketball team is comprised of Sophomores and Freshmen. They are all young and somewhat inexperienced, but going along side with youth and inexperience, also go stamina, a never-give-up-spirit, and an eagerness to learn and win. It is these young boys who will carry Loyola colors this year, Cory, and although it may be a rough course ahead for them, I feel certain that with the entire 160 of us giving all that we have, not even the War will keep Loyola from having a winning team.

I think I can speak for you and surely for myself, that if the spirit of "Loyalty to Loyola" ever begins to take a hold here, we will be satisfied that our efforts were not in vain.

Before closing, I thank you again for your fine letter and trust that you will continue to keep in close touch with us back home. The door at Loyola College is always open to you and I hope that when you return you will find Loyola students who will be whistling "Alma Mater Dear Loyola."

Good luck and So long.

Yours,

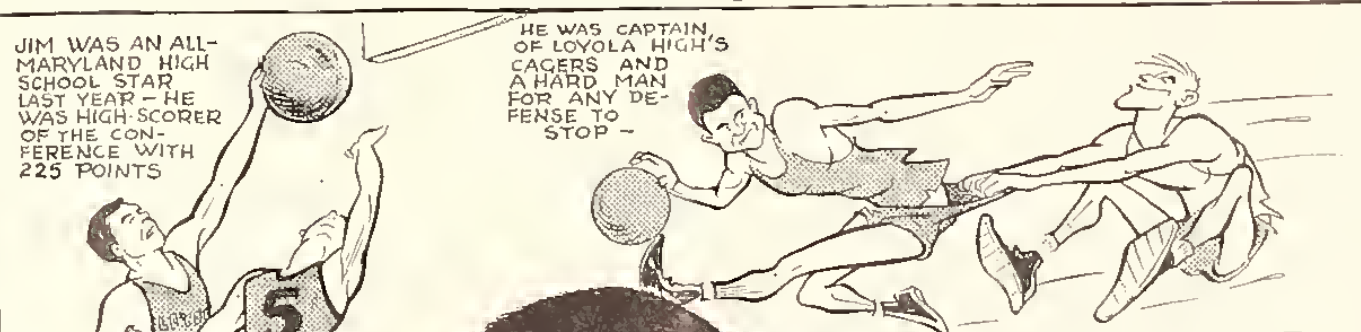

Gil Dunn

Reitz Reelected M-D. President

Emil G. "Lefty" Reitz, Athletic Director, was elected president of the Mason-Dixon Conference for the second successive year at a recent meeting of the conference representatives. The Conference, which is in its fourth year of existence, replaced the old Maryland Collegiate League. Lefty has been a spearhead since the organization of the conference. For the past two years he has been chairman of both the baseball and basketball committees. Due to his excellent handling of the basketball tournaments held here at Loyola in the past, the officers of the conference again placed Lefty in charge of basketball for the coming season and have designated Evergreen for the championship tournament.

Conference Champs

Lefty has built up a fine conference record. The first year he led the Hounds to the conference championship but lost the tournament to Western Maryland 39-38. The next year, Lefty's quintet completely dominated the title race by capturing both the conference championship and the tournament title. The baseball league has been all Loyola. The Greyhounds have been champs for the past three years. This is indeed a record to be proud of. Lefty has shown that he is a real leader and we sincerely hope that he will be able to carry on in his Loyola spirit.

ing according to a separate schedule. The subject matter of the lectures delivered by Father Rector consisted of an outline on the philosophy of life.

On page four of this issue, Dr. Doehler has written of the alumni retreat recently held at Manresa.

"These are the most important days of the college year," stated Father Higgins, student counselor, in a pamphlet distributed to all students concerning the retreat. Continued the pamphlet, "All year round we are occupied with the minor issues of life. During the retreat we leave all minor things to grapple with life's major or rather sole issue. Retreat shows us how to put first things first. God is first and there is no second."

McCarthy Inspects Rare Tomes Collected In Library Archives

By W. Alton McCarthy

To most of the student body the school library is a haven to which they can retire whenever they desire a place to "get away from it all" and study without being interrupted. It is the storehouse of the current 'best sellers' and popular magazines. But how many know of the rare and valuable books and newspapers which are stored there?

The library of Loyola College has grown from a collection of several hundred books to its present size of over 34,500 volumes. At one time these books were housed in the Science building. With the erection of the Library building, however, they were moved to their present home. When this change was made many rare editions of books and newspapers were discovered.

The newspapers are especially interesting. They are very enlightening as to the character of the people and customs of early America. For example, the unconcerned feeling of the people toward slavery is exemplified in the August 18, 1786 edition of the MARYLAND JOURNAL AND BALTIMORE ADVERTISER. One subscriber offers a reward of two dollars for the return of his milk cow. On the same page is offered a reward of four dollars for the return of a runaway slave. This man closes his advertisement by announcing that he also has a quantity of empty bottles for sale.

The oldest newspaper in the library is an issue of the VIRGINIA GAZETTE AND THE AMERICAN ADVERTISER. It was printed on February 9, 1782. Among other papers is to be found a collection of the BALTIMORE EVENING POST; MERCANTILE DAILY ADVERTISER. They are bound and comprise the complete set of issues for the year 1805.

Foremost among the old books to be found in our library is a copy of the first edition of the first Catholic Bible printed in English in the United States. This edition is of still greater interest because it has the autograph of John Carroll, first Bishop of Baltimore, and first Catholic Bishop in the United States. It appears to have been the presentation copy from the publisher, the celebrated Mathew Carey of Philadelphia, to the Bishop.

Other rare editions contain such autographs as Madam Joseph Bonaparte, Elizabeth Patterson, and Charles Carroll.
